Toasted Whole Grain Oat Cereal Clinically PROVEN to Help Reduce Cholesterol

FREE GIFT INSIDE...

It is my experienced and highly educated guess that you will be more likely to read the newsletter were it printed on the back of a cereal box that in its usual form regardless of how attractive it may be. The repeated attempts to secure a contract with General Mills, Post and Kelloggs, have been far too time consuming and costly to pursue.

Furthermore, this newsletter does not contain the daily compliment of vitamins, it has not been known to lower cholesterol, nor has it been certified, stamped, sealed and here-with-fore spindled, by the Food and Drug Administration. However it does contain the basic elements of our survival in the form of the efforts, suggestions and information created and engineered by your fellow parishioners.

One might claim it's not really good for you, for it has a few conditions. You are not required to eat this document as it does not contain sufficient nutritional value in which to sustain life indefinitely. Rather, it does contain all the nutritional elements one may need to become spiritually fit and duly informed as to the nature of our work, the recent events, meetings and services, hopefully of interest to our constituents.

The contents of this box when taken monthly, does contain the antidote to the ailment known as IDKWGO number 1. This is not contagious, nor is it hereditary. It is self inflicted and can be cured.

Therefore, please settle down with your morning coffee or tea, a bowl of the aforementioned, or whatever you choose, and paste this document to your brand of choice and never suffer again from I Don't Know What's Going On number 1 ever again!

See you in church!

Sincerely, Holly

UU CHRISTIAN STUDY GROUP PROPOSED

I have been told that there are a number of people who might want to explore their Christian roots from a UU perspective. I have belonged to the UU Christian Fellowship for the past several years and along the way have collected articles and books relating to UU Christians.

I would enjoy sharing this information with anyone who is interested.

This proposed group could decide what format would be desired; study, worship, and or a combination.

If you are interested let me know and we can plan an organizational meeting for some time this summer. I can be reached by phone (445-1242) or by e-mail(ghsears@earthlink.net)

President's Report

This newsletter's President's Report will be my last with the coming to a close of my second term as your elected president of our Society. While after two years of some very unprecedented events and decision making, I am ready to pass on the torch, it has truly been an incredible growth experience for me. I thank the congregation for placing their confidence in me and granting me their patience and good will.

Sailing through uncharted waters, together we have made our way through our "interim" period: forgiving, accepting, and strengthening our community. Facing decreasing revenues, together we tightened our belts, renegotiated contracts, cut costs and found new ways to do more with less. While having a lower number of pledges, we rallied as a community so that many individual pledge amounts are significantly higher.

While we certainly have had our share of special congregational meetings over the last few years, I am particularly happy that they produced a new carefully constructed constitution and the approval of hiring Holly has our Consulting Minister. These are both great steps forward for the health of congregation.

Another great step for a healthy congregation is the reinvigoration of our annual church picnics. Please mark your calendar for our Sunday June 28 Church Picnic at Clark Reservation and be sure to sign up for the picnic so we can plan for the number attending. Also please remember that church services will be conducted at the picnic at 11 am that Sunday.

Please also mark your calendars for our Annual Congregational Meeting on June 7 at noon.

Thank you and see you at church!

Joe Cavallaro, President

First UU Caring Network A Note From Holly.....

It is time to reestablish our Caring Network here at First UU. This is an important service to our immediate community, especially with Holly going on vacation for a good portion of the summer. This team will work with Holly to assess the needs of our members in ways that we can be helpful, with visiting, sending cards, providing a phone call, a meal or transportation etc. If you can offer help in any way, please sign up as we gather our resources for assistance. There will be a sign up sheet in the Fellowship hall for those interested.

Thanks, Holly

We consider the entire congregation members of this committee as, in one way or another, we all help each other.

A Thousand Cranes - June 14

Our children have been busy over the last 6 months working together in community on preparing their production of 1000 Cranes. We will be presenting the play during the service on Sunday, June 14th. This is sure to be a delight as the fruits of their talents and hard work in the areas of set building, costuming, special effects, and acting are presented for all to see. From the start this has been the children's production and every aspect of the planning and presentation are the results of their hard work and creativity.

If you have children in the RE program please mark your calendars for the upcoming events. On June 6th we will have an RE sleepover at the church. Please contact Ruth Mudge if your child cannot attend as we will be also using this opportunity to work with the sanctuary stage and equipment during our dress rehearsal. The schedule for the sleep over is as follows:

- 2:00pm Set Layout and Planning. We will be working on incorporating the set with the stage in the sanctuary. All children who are interested or have been involved in the building of the set and wish to be stage hands are encouraged to arrive during this time.
- 5:00pm Pizza Party, Celebration, and Awards Ceremony.
- 6:00pm Dress Rehearsal. This is the time we will have to use the sanctuary to run through the play. This time is very important to our children so that they will feel prepared in the space they will be presenting in.
- 9:00 pm Snack and fireplace time.
- 9:30 pm Sleep over until Sunday morning.

Coming Of Age 2009- A Spiritual and Spirited Trip

The COA group- Zane Suttmore, Elena Karpoff, Nick Piato, Corinne Hutchinson, Sean O'Bryan, and Hannah Lukow-with Fred Karpoff, Matt Hutchinson, and Eileen Taveniere as chaperones, had a fun and fruitful time in MA. The 5/14 – 5/17/09 itinerary included a tour and overview of the UUA Headquarters, a UUA Youth Office presentation, a tour of King's Chapel, a visit to the Plenary Cemetery, an afternoon at Quincy Market, a morning at the New England Aquarium, evenings on the beach in Rockport, ending with a visit to Walden Pond.

Nick regaled all being transported in the "boys" vehicle with his excellent taste in music, Zane found treasures from the sea and a toad at Thoreau's cabin site, Sean was pleased as can be to be surrounded by so much "B" sportswear at Quincy Market, Corinne cooked an excellent pasta meal with artichoke sauce (ask her for the recipe), and Hannah and Elena artfully lead us in creating our COA thank you stepping stone for the Sharfsteins who opened their Rockport home to us.

As for the chaperones, Matt was an excellent navigator and took lots of photos, Fred kept a clean kitchen and worked wonders with a bathroom plunger, and Eileen acted as banker and sort-of guide.

The weather and the company couldn't have been better!

COA 2008/09 Couldn't have happened without the dedication of our COA guides, Tina Leslie-Fox, Jim D'Aloisio, Brenda Owens, and Jesse Harasta, who worked almost every Sunday with the youth. Tina and Jesse were also our chaperones on 2 overnight retreats. COA mentors, Tanya Gesek, Rebecca Karpoff, Chris Allen, Phil Klein, Jeff Lamicella, Jerry Sharfstein, Kipp Mudge, and Keith Bertrand helped tremendously with spiritual exploration and credo development. Thank you to all.

Finally, a warm thank you to everyone who supported COA fund raising activities through-out the year. You helped create fond memories by making this UU youth journey possible.

WHAT DOES NATURE MEAN TO ME? INFINITE WONDER!

Now, if we traded places, and I were sitting in your place rather than standing up here, I'd probably be thinking (if I were awake and had even heard what you said): What does he mean by that? All he's done is replace one hard-to-define word with two that are just as hard or harder to define! Does he mean the mathematician's infinite or the physicist's, or is it to him just some misty, quasi-religious concept? And in what sense is he using "wonder"?

I looked up "wonder" in my dictionary (Webster's Collegiate, 10th edition, not the Concise English Dictionary that Holly cited last week). It gave two definitions: a) "rapt attention or astonishment at something awesomely mysterious or new to one's experience," and b) "a feeling of doubt or uncertainty."

So let me give you an example of wonder. At this time of year I could use blooming trees and flowers, birds and bees, or little fuzzy baby animals, but I don't need to, because Jerry Clausen has already done it well.

Last Sunday I saw something wonderful while driving on a not particularly scenic stretch of Brighton Avenue. This was up near Brighton Towers, from which one on a clear day can almost see Oswego! What did I see? A white plastic bag!

Huh?

What did he say?

A white plastic bag, but it was flying! - What?

Like a bird, but it was doing acrobatics in the wind above the I-81 overpass. It would fill with air like a balloon, rise quickly, then collapse like a bird drawing in its wings and dive towards the ground until it picked up another gust of air and rose swiftly again, or just drifted slowly off like a hot-air balloon on a still day. I watched it only during the minute we were waiting at the red light. There wasn't even time enough to draw my passengers' attention to it before it disappeared.

Now, what does this have to do with Nature? Well, I could tell you that it indicates the chaotic, seemingly random nature of gusts of wind, whether near the ground or higher in the atmosphere, where airplanes sometimes encounter "clear air turbulence." In this case the gusts were especially interesting because they were hitting the overpass and causing secondary eddies when bound vortices separated from the structure. These eddies interacted with the flexible surface of the bag to give it its unpredictable motion. That's using fluid dynamics' lingo to disguise the fact that I can't really explain what I saw!

Perhaps it's better to simply say that I observed a beautiful and unpredictable natural phenomenon. When we're suddenly confronted with something like this, we can rummage around in the pigeon holes of our brains for words which only imperfectly express our feelings. Perhaps poets do better than most of us at this. Here are a few lines taken from William Butler Yeats' poem "Vacillation" which express better than I can the way I feel after experiencing the infinite wonder of Nature:

*My fiftieth year had come and gone,
I sat, a solitary man,
In a crowded London shop,
An open book and an empty cup
On the marble table-top.*

*While on the shop and street I gazed
My body of a sudden blazed;
And twenty minutes more or less
It seemed, so great my happiness,
That I was blessed and could bless.*

He wrote this in 1932. If he could have an epiphany while looking out of a tea-shop window onto a London street, how much beauty and wonder can we find in natural phenomena outside our door, even on a windy day on Brighton Avenue?

Musical Notes

Music Sunday is June 7. The Requiem, by Gabriel Fauré will be performed by the choir, with musical accompaniment. Gabriel Fauré (1845-1924) first performed his Requiem in Paris, at the Church of the Madeline in 1888. Fauré was a composer, organist, pianist, known for harmonic and melodic language of the art song. The Requiem was not composed to the memory of a special person, but in Fauré's words, "for the pleasure of it." However his parents died around the time of this composition.

Without question Fauré's REQUIEM is one of the masterpieces of Choral Literature. His goal was to write a "small requiem" something very much against the grain of his peers and generation. Large works were being written, with full orchestration and calling for expanded, if not massive forces. Fauré wanted to write something smaller, something more accessible not only to audiences but performers as well. This is a piece that was intended to be for everyday people, churches and community choirs. It was Fauré's gift to all of us. What can you say about Fauré's music, especially choral music?

Organic, is what first comes to mind. His music is ...as natural as breathing. In a way, similar to Mozart, but yet very different. First of all he's French, and his music, his idiom is French in every way. But while Mozart was a conduit to a higher voice, Fauré was a conduit for his fellow mortals. His melodies are the sounds of wind and rain, and laughing voices and crying babies. When you listen close you can hear the crunch of leaves, and smell the sweet scent of spring moss. And even though his music is beautiful and skilled, its beauty is that of this world, of our world, and the beauty that surrounds us each and every day.

Tips for listeners on June 7: Three things: listen, Listen, LISTEN. Do the words matter, sure, but hidden in each phrase, each melody and harmony, lies everything Fauré was trying to express. There is no homework that needs to be done, no knowledge anyone needs to have to come to this piece and discover for themselves what it holds, and what it means to them.

Our Soprano Soloist will be our own Rebecca Karpoff, and our baritone soloist will be Phil Eisenman. I promise you, this is NOT something you will want to miss.
